

BREAD FUND STARS.

A Theatrical Bill That Has Had No Equal in Years.

The Players Who Will Help "The World's" Timely Charity.

One Dollar for a Trunk Will Give Twenty Loaves to the Hungry.

The great benefit performance at the Star Theatre next Thursday afternoon for "The World's" Free Bread Fund is now an assured success. It will add a substantial sum to the fund, to which the public has already so liberally subscribed. The demand for seats is growing as the date of the performance approaches, and there is every probability when the curtain rises upon one of the finest programmes that will ever have been given in the Star Theatre—the home of high-class drama—the audience will be one of the largest that will ever have assembled there.

The New York theatre-going public is seldom afforded such a treat as the one in store for it next Thursday. The artists have been selected from a host of volunteers, with a view of making the characters of the performance as varied as possible. Miss Marie Tempest is the most popular and the most talented prima donna of English light opera.

Nat C. Goodwin is one of the three great comedians of the American stage. Miss Rhea is a leading light of the tragic stage.

Miss Rhea is a bright star among the comedians. Lyle Fuller and Lottie Collins are the rage on both sides of the Atlantic.

Mr. Martin has been for years one of the stars of the Comedians. He has been as successful in his American success as he has in his Parisian triumphs.

Nelson Wheatley is probably New York's most popular young leading man, and he is certainly one of the most intellectual members of the metropolitan stage.

Miss Lawrence is a unique in her sphere; none of the Parisian stars who have come to America in the past year have approached her success. She will show tonight the mocking bird notes that were not in his register when she puckered her pretty lips and whistled herself into fame.

Bessie Cleveland and Dorothy Morton are two of the sweetest singers among the young women who are winning fame and position in light opera.

Albert Christian has made a distinct success with Miss Collins in the amusing sketch which they will give at the benefit.

Conroy and Fox are regarded as the leading variety team in New York. Charles Hopper, who has been added to the programme, is a new performance in himself, and a very entertaining performance, too.

The pretty girls in Rice's "100" are going to be a very popular feature of the programme. Mr. Rice's great production is full of beautiful young women, and the handsomest among them were selected for the Columbia march. They will put on their costumes in their own dressing rooms at Palmer's Theatre and will be driven in carriages there to the stage door of the Star Theatre.

Anybody who stays away from that performance is going to be mighty sorry about it one of these days. When he comes to think of the many good things he has had in life he will apologize to himself for not having gone to the Star Theatre and giving the twenty loaves of bread for seeing the greatest theatrical entertainment in the year of our Lord 1893. Twenty of those starving families over on the east side are going to be sorry about it, too. That is the worst of it.

While he is staying away everybody else is hustling down and worrying about it. Mr. Scullion, the treasurer of the Star Theatre, very much indeed because he cannot give them the very best seat in the house. He has had in the habit of missing good things, but in his inside pocket Mr. Scullion has a helping Mr. Russell make the next best seat. She went down early yesterday morning to the theatre and found her efforts on such occasions, though far away from New York, she was feeding the starving poor, and this morning the following despatch was received:

CHICAGO, Sept. 5, 1893. To the Editor: The Free Bread Fund is a noble undertaking. I wish I could participate in your benefit performance, and would have to New York, but have to appear in "As You Like It" to-night. Will send check for $5 for a box. Sincerely, "BRODER SOLL."

BRODER AND SOLL HELD. Police Say One Killed McMahon and the Other Was a Witness.

James Broder, the salesman, of 24 West Thirty-seventh street, was arrested in Jefferson Market Court today to give Detectives Hise and Curry time to secure more evidence against him.

Broder is accused of striking the blow with a stick Saturday night from the effects of which Patrick McMahon, a porter, of West Thirtieth street, subsequently died. Broder is thirty-one years of age, and is a native of Ireland.

Henry Soll, thirty-one years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He is accused of striking McMahon, who was arrested last night. Justice Koch committed him to the House of Detention this morning.

Soll positively refused to say anything about the case, and Broder denies all knowledge of the crime.

McMahon was walking with his wife on Ninth avenue late Saturday night when one of the two men behind them addressed an insulting remark to Mrs. McMahon.

Her husband turned around to expostulate with the ruffian, when the latter struck him on the head, fracturing his skull and knocking him insensible.

The police say that the assailant was Broder, and should be cared for by him. McMahon died Sunday night.

HARRISON'S PENSION VIEWS. Ex-President Talks to Grand Army Men at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 5.—In delivering the address of welcome last night at the citizens' reception in the Grand Army officers and delegates, Gen. Harrison said, among other things:

"The Grand Army of the Republic had rightly claimed that the man who fell in the way of the battle of life, from disease or casualty, or the advancing years, now the capacity to maintain himself, and should be cared for by the nation—he helped to save, and not be dependent upon the township poor fund."

We do not ask that any man who has fraudulently obtained a place upon the pension rolls should be kept there, but we do ask that that other familiar maxim of the law, that fraud is to be proved and not presumed, shall be applied to the soldier's claim.

FOUND HANGING TO THE ROOF.

Old Healy, a Well-Known Character, Commits Suicide.

His Wife Refuses to Take the Body Into Her House.

Cornelia Healy, sixty-seven years old, of 12 Washington street, a well-known character in that neighborhood, hanged herself on the roof of his house this morning.

His body was found by a little girl named Catherine McMahon. She gave the alarm and Policeman Thomas J. Connors, of the Church street station, cut the body down.

The old man's wife when she heard that her husband had committed suicide, refused to have anything to do with the body, and wouldn't let the policeman carry it into the house.

The case was then reported to the Church street police station and a permit secured from the Coroner's office for the removal of the corpse, which was taken to the morgue.

When found, old Healy was in his possession two cents and a nail of eye-glasses. He had evidently made a noose from the clothes line, fastened it to a pole on the roof, put it around his neck, and then jumped from the coping.

He had been a sufferer from asthma for the past eight or ten years, and was unable to work. His wife, who is feeble, supported herself as best she could by washing and mending, while her husband lived on the charity of neighbors.

Last night Healy went to the rooms of Mrs. Catherine McMahon, who lives on the second floor of No. 12, and he was nearly starved. Mrs. McMahon made him a cup of tea and gave him something to eat. He then went to the room of the house, saying he would return the rooms of Mrs. McMahon, who had prepared a bed for him.

PROGRESSIVE EUCRE SCORED. Tennessee Judge Tells the Grand Jury that It is Gambling.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 5.—Judge Moon, in his charge to the Grand Jury yesterday, created a sensation by declaring that progressive eucres was gambling. He said:

"Not only is gambling carried on in regular gambling resorts, but people of high standing and respectability gamble. They may not put down money, but they set an example for others in playing for prizes and awards. In these progressive eucres games, those persons play for the pictures or gold-headed canes. Examples are set that are a violation of law, and it is just as demoralizing as common gambling. A conviction of one of the higher class is better, as an example, than the conviction of only ordinary people for common gambling. Society people are excited over the attitude taken by the Judge."

Koch Wants Help.

Jefferson Market Court is Short of Clerks.

Police Justice Koch, who is sitting in Jefferson Market Court today, sent the following letter, which explains it, to Justice Weiler:

"Second District Police Court, New York, Sept. 5, 1893. Hon. Charles Weiler, President Board of Police Justices."

"Dear Sir: I find there is not sufficient clerical force to transact the business of the court for the following reasons:

"Messrs. Rosenthal and Winkelman are absent on vacation by permission of Justice Hogan. There is a vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mr. McIlwain. Mr. Parley asks a vacation of West Tenth street, about 6:30 o'clock this morning. The bullet missed Fields, who is in the right hand of William Ackerman, brother of the owner of the place, who was behind the bar."

"I have again called upon an assistant to the court, and have been told that there is but one assistant clerk to the court. Yours, etc., J. KOCH."

"THOMAS COTERIE" MUST GO.

Its Chief Object Seems to Be to Assault Policemen.

Thomas Cannon, twenty-two, of 45 West Broadway, was held in $500 bail in the Tombs Court today for assaulting Policeman Michael Regan, of the Leonard street station.

Regan, while patrolling his beat on Thomas street last night at 11 o'clock, asked a number of young toughs who were making a great noise to desist. Among them was Cannon, who jumped upon a truck and made a defiant speech to his companions.

He addressed them as "fellow-members of the Thomas Coterie," and dared the officer to arrest him.

Regan pulled him off the truck and he fought manfully, during the police man's uniform was torn. During the row the other members of the "Coterie" made themselves scarce.

Regan finally landed Cannon in the Leonard street station-house.

This makes the third assault on a policeman during the past week by some kung, and it shows the rowdies, aimed to rid his precinct of the rowdies.

VICTORY STILL NAMED. Miss Bateman Has Not Seen Withdrawn as Co-respondent.

Lawyer Abe Hummel today denied the published report that the name of Victoria Bateman, the actress, had been withdrawn as co-respondent by Amy Busby in her suit for divorce against her husband, Aubrey Boucicault.

Mr. Hummel is counsel for Boucicault and Miss Bateman. He said that so far as he knew no charges had been made, and that the complaint filed by Miss Busby recited alleged acts of infidelity, and added:

"I think Miss Busby will have a hard job to prove her reason for naming Mrs. Bateman as co-respondent. The allegation is groundless, but later on she said this morning that she didn't speak English. She seemed to understand it readily enough, for when asked if her husband spoke English she quickly replied, 'No.'"

Rappaport is an intelligent looking man and wears good clothing. The police say he doesn't do any work and that he is a parasite. A watchman named Meyer, who is guarding some buildings being erected next door, told Detective Smith that Rappaport had entered the place about 5 o'clock and came out half an hour later dressed in a new suit of clothing.

Acting on this information the detective arrested Rappaport. He protested to have been married in St. Petersburg little over a year ago. They are said to have been married in St. Petersburg little over a year ago. They are said to have been married in St. Petersburg little over a year ago.

BANKING BILLS IN THE HOUSE.

Many Financial Measures Ready for the Calendar.

Other Bills in Include One to Increase Letter-Carriers' Pay.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—In anticipation of the adoption of the code of rules, reported and now pending in the House, members have already read 202 bills which will be placed on the calendar in the order in which they were received.

A great majority are bills that have already found a place on the calendars of previous Congresses, such as bills to repeal the Federal Election laws, to repay to the States the cotton tax, to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy, and to increase the facilities for prosecuting War claims of various kinds. The original bills chiefly grow out of existing financial conditions.

Mr. Coombs (Dem., of Brooklyn) is the author of a long amendment to the National Bank act intended to secure additional currency. It authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to issue circulating notes to National banks upon the following securities deposited with him to the amounts named:

On United States bonds, 100 per cent. On State, railway and municipal bonds at least par market value, on which interest has not defaulted for ten years, 50 per cent.

On first mortgage loans guaranteed by corporations with $100,000 capital, 75 per cent. On certificates of deposit of gold and silver coin or bullion in the Treasury or mints, 100 per cent.

On warehouse receipts of pig iron, cotton and wheat issued by companies with paid up capital of $50,000, 75 per cent. Several bills to repeal the 10 per cent. tax on State bank circulation are included in the list, and two to establish a income tax on the last year, one by Mr. McRat, Democrat, of Arkansas, in a moderate measure, and one by Mr. Mitchell, Democrat, of Tennessee, in its provisions is quite radical. He proposes to lay a tax of 2 per cent. on $10,000; 5 per cent. on $10,000 to $20,000; 10 per cent. on $20,000 to $50,000; 20 per cent. on $50,000 to $100,000; 30 per cent. on $100,000 to $500,000; 40 per cent. on all over $500,000.

Mr. McRat has also a bill designed to increase the circulating medium by directing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue annually, at the end of each fiscal year, Treasury notes to an amount equal to the total taxes and revenues collected by the Government during the preceding year, and to replace the National bank currency by an equal amount of Treasury notes.

Mr. Hartner (Dem., of N. Y.) has prepared a National Bank bill, under the provisions of which National banks may prepare circulating notes up to 75 per cent. of their paid-in capital and surplus without depositing bonds to secure it, and bonds now on deposit with the Treasurer to secure circulation may be withdrawn.

Mr. Hartner has also prepared a bill making it unlawful, under heavy penalties, for any officer or employee of a National bank to borrow money of that bank, also, to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to sell United States bonds when he deems it necessary, thereby to maintain the parity of paper and gold, also, to authorize the issue of National bank notes to the par value of bonds deposited for their redemption, also, directing the President to open the mints of the United States to the free coinage of silver wherever he shall have been officially advised that not less than six nations of Europe, including Great Britain, Germany and France, have likewise opened their mints.

Bills have been prepared for the creation of public buildings at various places, including the following, to cost the money named: Albany, Conn., $100,000; Yonkers, N. Y., $75,000; Hudson, N. Y., $100,000.

Among other measures are the following: By Mr. Wheeler (Dem., Ala.)—To provide for the admission of the State of Arizona.

To enable the people of New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma to form a constitution and State government to be admitted into the Union on equal footing with the other States.

By Mr. Oates (Dem., Ala.)—To authorize National banks to loan money on real estate.
